

"BILL" GERIE NOMINATED

Is the Athletic Association's Choice for President.

HOCKEY "M'S" GRANTED

Six Large "M's" and Three Second Grade "M's" Were Voted.

A regular meeting of the Athletic Association was held in the Union yesterday at five o'clock. Considerable business was disposed of.

Science '19 was granted permission to play the Macdonald Hockey Team at Ste. Anne's on an early date if a game can be arranged.

The four men who participated in the ski-run, which took place at Dartmouth a few weeks ago, were suspended for taking part in outside athletics without the sanction of the McGill U.A.A. They were: George Scott, Science '17; E. Pope, Science '17; G. D. McLeod, Arch. '16, and A. M. Thompson.

The hockey "M's" for the year were awarded. Six men received the large block "M." They were: G. D. Scott, Science '17; C. A. H. Hibbard, Arts '16; C. S. Kelsch, Commercial; J. W. Rooney, Med. '18; O. J. McCulloch, Science '17, and F. H. Andrews, Science '16.

H. A. Whitcomb, Med. '20, would also have qualified for a large "M" if he had not been a Freshman. He was granted numerals.

Second grade block "M's" were granted as follows: A. J. Jaques, Science, '17; A. H. Gibb, Med. '19, and J. H. Rochester, Science '17.

A letter from G. Mel Brock, the secretary of the Athletic Association of Western University, with regard to their entry into the C.I.A.A.U., was read. The matter was left over till the next meeting of the Association.

The matter of choosing the Athletic Association's own candidate for the office of President of the Association was taken up, and W. H. Gerrie, Science '17, the secretary of the Association, was chosen unanimously.

POEMS SET TO MUSIC.

Edinburgh, Scotland.—Recently to a large audience, two French ladies, Madame Bathori and Mlle. Scialtie, gave a delightful entertainment in Edinburgh described as "Une heure de Chansons et de Poésies Françaises." French songs and recitations were admirably rendered, but the most interesting part of the performance was the singing of five of Robert Louis Stevenson's poems from "A Child's Garden of Verses" set to as yet unpublished music, by the talented French composer, Reynaldo Hahn, who is at present serving as a private and is said to have composed these airs at the front.

CHICAGO TO SEE THE EARLY PLAYS

Students Will Show Development of Dramatic Presentation.

Chicago, Ill.—The development of dramatic presentation in Europe from the earliest forms down to pre-Shakespearean days is to be illustrated at the University of Chicago by the production of four old pieces. None of these, so far as is known here, has ever been given in this country before. The evening is under the auspices of the department of English of the university. The department has gone to considerable effort to insure historical fidelity in the costuming and presentation.

The first play, the "Sponsus," is one of the earliest forms of the drama leading to Shakespeare, remarks Prof. Percy H. Boynton, of the department of English. It was written about 1100 in central France. This kind of play was presented as a part of the church service, with a choir in church vestments. The "Sponsus" deals with the story of the wise and foolish virgins. It will be acted and sung by a local church choir.

At a later period, when the drama had grown beyond the church, "The Second Shepherd's Play" came into being, about 1450. Mystery plays were then given by the trade guilds in the public squares. This one introduces some broad comedy. Prof. Boynton observes that it presents one of the earliest concessions to the new familiar legend, "what the public wants." The play tells of the Nativity, and counterfeits the characters in comedy. Before a manger takes place a sheep-stealing scene. The vagrant shepherd bears the sheep home to his wife and they hide it in the cradle. Shepherds search the room and are about to leave when they give gifts to the young child, and the deception is discovered. Then follows the dignified Biblical portrayal.

Next comes the drama of a hundred years later, when morality plays were the thing. "The Nice Wanton" is a conventional play of this type, treating of the right and wrong way to bring up children. The child rightly reared becomes all that could be desired and the other all that could be expected.

The Elizabethan Jig, rounding out the series, brings the drama down to Shakespeare. This is "The Wooing of Nan," and Nan is wooed in singing and dancing. Usually this is included in Marlowe's works, under the title of "A Dialog in Verse," because Marlowe's name was written across the manuscript in which the jig was discovered.

The Fifth Universities Company will parade for Divine service to-morrow morning to Westmount Presbyterian Church. Rev. Dr. W. J. Clark will preach.

NO MELODY IN MODERN MUSIC

Dr. H. C. Perrin Delivers Last of Lectures.

FUTURISTS CRITICIZED

Do Not Recognize Any Laws of Harmony, Says the Lecturer.

The last of a series of six musically illustrated lectures was delivered before a large and attentive audience in the Conservatorium Hall on Thursday evening by the popular director, Dr. Perrin, on the subject of "Modern Music, its Tendencies and Influence."

"It is very difficult," said Dr. Perrin, in part, "to estimate the value of contemporary art, since it cannot be altogether dissociated from the past, but we must agree with Mr. H. G. Wells when he declares that we are trying to see into the future, backwards in our modern music. In every worthy musical composition there must be some form, some prominent idea or shape, or, as in absolute music, a thought or idea that has sprung into being without any conscious association."

"Music has now reached the illustrative period," continued Dr. Perrin, "and such composers as Weber in his Piano Concerto, Mendelssohn in his Italian, Scotch Symphonies, Tschalkowsky in his tone drama, Manfred, and finally Berlioz, the great master of orchestration, have elaborated upon the tone poem as established by Schumann; in Wagner, equality."

"There are two great classes of musicians at the present time, the conservatives, who adhere to the established musical traditions, and the futurists. 'Holders of the conservative view say that artistic expression can only be in 'certain limits'; the other, that every original composition must be unrestrained. They make no distinction between what is good or bad, beautiful or ugly. One side wants form and symmetry; the other gives us specimens of form on the level with the cubists in the art of painting. With them, any device is legitimate which will produce a realistic effect. The result is that their music is a mere mixture of sounds and music of deliberately planned cacophony means its delineation as an art. The established music is based on the accepted system of scales and triads, and is full of melody, rhythm, harmony and correct prepared and resolved dissonance; but modern music is without harmony, recognizes no dissonance, and is of a vaguelike nature. It contains no melody and flies away from us to find resting places in the music of the past. It remains to be seen what the music of the future will be."

Dr. Perrin then gave illustrations from the works of Cyril, Scott, Scriabin, Debussy, Schonberg, and Rachmaninoff, and concluded with an account of Ornstein's compositions, which are certainly most ultra modern and not worthy of serious consideration.

Mr. Nolley gave valuable assistance by singing a song of Ravel's, and at the conclusion of the lecture a vote of thanks to Dr. Perrin was warmly seconded by the whole audience.

NEW MEDICAL COURSE.

Large Number of Queen's Men to Attend.

The course in medicine at Queen's, which will open on May 1 and continue until November 30, promises to be very largely attended, as all the students now taking medicine have signified their intention of returning to Queen's for the course. The course has been established in order to qualify more quickly men for medical work at the front. The fact that all of the medical students have decided to take the new course shows that all are eager to serve their country.

Behind the Isonzo

Cars drive up with the long-expected loads. For days and nights and days the wounded come, crowding into the big paved hall, uncertain, dazed and curious throngs choking the doorway, batches of men, then more batches, limbs splinted, bloody head-cloths, back and chest wounds, arms in slings, men walking, limping in, hobbling on sticks, carried in friendly arms or pig-a-back, others borne in on bulging stretchers which are lowered on trestles till the whole floor is thick with wounded. The orderlies, singling each his man, bend over them, unfastening saturated cloaks and tunics, unbuckling belts, wrestling with sodden boots, with puttees, trousers; the surgeons move swiftly from man to man, scanning their splinted limbs and bandages, fingering torn head, neck or chest, while guessing each wound's gravity, calling aloud the wards, "Cadorna," "Victor Emmanuele," "Margherita," clearing a passage way for stretcher bearers; then comes the lightest ward, the sister hurrying to hand, the grip of hands round trunk and shrinking limbs, the steady lift and long, swift heave of the man's body into bed.

More and more the sick and wounded come; they overflow from crowded wards and hall into the granary, a shadowy, spacious echoing floor, lining the walls, bedded on mattresses, on thick straw spread, on tent clothed, on piles of undressed wool hurriedly unpacked from bales, a hundred men all to be fed, made warm with blankets, rugs, odd clothing, their wounds all to be shown and dressed. The soldiers sleep that night, oblivious of their wants, worn out, low-breathing, never stirring, bodies and spirit hungering for rest. But to the operating theatre below, in that white naked light, come nurses and assistants ready with instruments and anaesthetics. The surgeons come; the doors are shut. . . . So here behind the Isonzo flows the tide of war, where life grapples with life, and life goes out in death.

Things Theatrical

THE IMPERIAL.

Fannie Ward, the brilliant Lasky star, who scored such a pronounced success in "The Cheat," will be seen on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, in the photo-dramatic version of the famous story of "Tennessee's Pardner." The scenes of this story are laid in the early days of California. Miss Ward is surrounded by a cast of unusual excellence, consisting of such prominent artists as Jack Dean, Charles Clary, Jessie Arnold, Raymond Hutton, James Neill, and other members of the Lasky all-star organization.

On Wednesday and Thursday patrons of the Imperial will witness an unusual and intensely interesting feature picture in "Black Fear." This picture was produced for release on the Metro programme upon an elaborate scale, no expense being spared for either sets or in the quality of the artists engaged. An all-star cast, including Grace Elliston, Grace Valentine, Edward Brennan, and other prominent artists of the stage and screen were used to make "Black Fear" one of the sensations of the season in filmland. "Black Fear" contains a gripping story of the fast increasing cocaine habit among a certain class of people in New York City. This vital, yet somewhat difficult subject, is treated in a masterly manner, and there is an interesting love story running through the plot that is absolutely novel and new. The production contains many big scenes, including one made in New York's Chinatown, a huge ballroom scene, the death of a man who topples out of the fourth storey of a pretentious home in Riverside Drive, a faithful reproduction of the New York Juvenile Court, and a thrilling scene in the Supreme Court.

There are many ways of meeting a girl for the first time. One of them is to slide into her stateroom in the middle of the night, while arrayed in pyjamas, seated securely, if not very comfortably, on your steamer trunk. There are only a very few young men who have attempted this extremely unconventional form of introduction, among them John Barrymore, who thus waits his way into the friendship of Helene, the Princess of Okam, in the Famous Players Film Company's presentation of "Nearly a King," in which the celebrated comedian is starred on the Paramount programme. This will be seen on Friday and Saturday.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN

AT THE LONDON

At the London, for three days, commencing Monday, the screen star, Warren Kerrigan, with Lois Wilson and Harry Carter, will be featured in "The Pool of Flame," a fascinating photoplay of love, romance and adventure by Louis Joseph Vance, the well-known and popular author of fiction.

Besides this, the first chapter of the big serial, "The Girl and the Game," a Mutual special feature, will also be screened. Chapter one is entitled "Helen's Race With Death," and is in two reels. It is adapted from the thrilling railroad novel by Frank Hamilton Spearman. The beautiful Helen Holmes will make her debut in a role for which her brilliant career as "the railroad girl" of the films has peculiarly fitted her. The little brown-haired girl with an irresistible smile will put into the fifteen chapters in this great serial more thrills than lovers of motion pictures have ever enjoyed.

Mr. Spearman, who wrote the story of this extraordinary series, is a near-liner in McClure's, Collier's and other leading publications. He is the author of "Whispering Smith," that unparalleled success among newspaper serials, also of "Robert Kimberly" and "The Mountain Divide." In the above-mentioned serial, the spirit of fight, the complexities of finance, intrigue, virility and cool-headedness are some of the qualities which make "The Girl and the Game," the red-blooded drama of real adventure that it is. A love story of the most absorbing interest pervades all the episodes, and each release is replete with thrills.

For to-day and to-morrow's programme, two kleptomaniacs and two real crooks and a double wedding are responsible for all the fun in "Stop Thief." George Kleine's latest photoplay. The film is founded on the Cohan & Harris farce by Carlyle Moore, which had such a long and successful run throughout America a short while ago. This feature is a decided hit.

SUNDAY SING.

There will be a "Sing" tomorrow night at nine o'clock in Strathcona Hall. There is the possibility that a man will be present to demonstrate the gramophone.

THE 1917 ANNUAL.

The 1917 Annual is now well on the road to completion, and its appearance at the very earliest date possible may be looked forward to. The Editorial Board has set Monday as the final date upon which drawings contracted for and reading matter intended for insertion will be accepted. Articles still unreceived are the following: Athletic Association, Architectural Association, French Club, Y.M.C.A., Chemical Society, Electrical Society, R.V.C. Athletics, Basketball Review, Swimming Review, B. W. and F. Club.

Gifts for Soldiers

Your Friend in the Fifth Universities Company will be leaving shortly for Overseas Service.

Before he goes present him with some needed article for the sake of "Auld Lang Syne." Our Military Department offers many suggestions of Personal Accessories, in Leather, Silver, etc., which will add to his comfort at the front.

Prices range from a few cents up.

QUIPS

—By T. J. K.

QUITE NECESSARY.

Tom—"I hear that they buried the Janitor last week?"
Fred—"Yes, they had to. He died."

A thirsty young sport up in Maine Pretended to suffer great Paine, But when he'd imbibed What the druggist prescribed, He said he felt better againe.

ATTENTION LAW.

Lives of rich men oft remind us,
We can make our lives like theirs;
And departing leave behind us,
Lawsuits to engage our heirs.

It happened in one of the city hospitals when one of the Meds. was escorting a fair damsel around the wards. She pointed out a distinguished blood specialist and asked, "Who is that man?" He responded with that "sang fraud" for which he is noted, "Oh! He's a circulation manager." And she isn't wise yet.

RUFF STUFF.

"Where's your brother?"
"Down-town learning to drill."
"With the 148th?"
"Nope. Taking Dentistry at McGill."

'TIS TRUE! 'TIS TRUE!

A bald man moves his comb through air,
And heavy is his heart;
For you can not lose all your hair,
And still retain a part.

FAMOUS SENTENCES.

"Thirty days!"
"I pronounce you 'husband' and 'wife'."
"Seventy-five cents from those who took part in the 'scrap'."
"She's worth twelve thousand a year."
"You're suspended for not taking two hours per week physical exercise."

We happened to glance over a fashion magazine the other day and noticed the following:
"This year the hair will be worn close to the head."
Exactly. Finger nails will be worn close to the fingers, and, in fact, have been for some time past.

LITTLE CO-ED.

Little Co-ed,
Be on your way;
Your tricks are done,
You've had your say;
The nation is wise to the hyphen throng,
And you, Little Co-ed, must breeze along.

SILENT THOUGHTS.

When you see a man put his feet up on a desk, "so that he can think better," you can't help deciding at which end of his body he keeps his brains.

A man entered a drug store in a hurry and asked for a dozen two-grain quinine pills.
"Shall I put them in a box, sir?" asked the clerk, as he counted them out.
"Oh! No," replied the customer, "I want to roll them home."

Just as soon as a man gets on Easy street some person comes along and begins to tear up the pavement there.

Without mentioning any names we rise to remark that a certain young lady said, when speaking of a gentleman that some of us know, "If his mouth was as big as his talk he could brush his teeth with a broom."

Evidently prompted by the beautiful little verse printed by us last week, a reader sends us the following:
Silently, one by one,

Upon the desks in the exam. room,
Appeared small bits of paper—
The forget-me-nots of the students.

THIS HAPPENED.

While we freely admit that our reputation for veracity is nothing to write home about—in certain quarters at least—nevertheless the following is a truthful account of what happened in a Med. clinic yesterday:

The doctor who was in charge asked one of the students to take the patient's pulse. The student in question had not a second hand on his watch, so, turning to the doctor, he asked for his watch. The doctor looked at the stude and then said, "Mine isn't a second-hand watch, either."

Susie—"Is he in the standing army?"
Phyllis—"No, he's in the Flying Corps."

Without holding ourselves responsible for the consequences, we will again burden you with the newest product from the pen of that great mechanical poet, Donald Ronald de Courcy Ross-Ross:

DID YOU EVER?

Did you ever stop to think
That this world of ours was round?
That the sea was made of water,
And the earth comprised the ground?
That beneath the earth there is
A solid bed of rock?
That before the ships put out to sea
They have to leave the dock?
Or that a train ran on two rails,
By manner of its wheels?
That fish swam in the ocean,
And whales and sharks and seals?
That the sun shed real white light,
But was colored by atmospheric dirt?

That a man was born to labor
And a girl was born to flirt?
Did you ever stop to wonder
Why everyone's so queer?
And do such funny things,
Just to get a living here?
That just because of this,
So many things are made?
How a Civil Engineer will work
Just to make a perfect grade?

And in concluding here
Like the ending of a lash,
Did you ever hesitate a moment
Just to think you're reading trash?
(Come again, Donald; we only understand the last couple of lines, and we heartily agree with them.—Ed.)

THEOLOGICAL BASKETBALL

Wesleyans and Congregationalists Played Tie.

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED

Fast Basketball Was Played in League Fixture Last Night.

After a game of intense excitement, the last scheduled game of the Theological basketball series was won last night by the Congregational College. When time was called the score was even, each side having 31 points, and it was on overtime play that the deciding goal was scored by the C.C.C. team. This win makes the Wesleyan and Congregational Colleges tied for the championship, and a play-off will be necessary. It was expected that the game would be closely contested, and a goodly sized crowd of rooters were on hand to help along their favorite teams. At 7 o'clock, Principal Smythe, of the Wesleyan College, tossed up the ball and started the play going. The Methodists scored several goals and fouls in succession at the start, and when about quarter time the score stood 8 to 1 in their favor, it looked as if they would have it all their own way. The Congos, however, soon got into better form, showing more skill in short passes, and they managed to add a few goals to their credit. During the whole of the first half, at the end of which the Wesleyans were still ahead with 15 to 11, the play was fast and furious, and it looked as if the players would not be able to stand such a pace.

When the second half commenced, the C.C.C. men, working in well together and doing some beautiful pass work, soon evened up the score. From then to the end of the game there was thrilling suspense, as first one side and then the other would be in the lead. The goals were made alternately by either side with a regularity which scarcely varied. The spectators, as one and then the other team would get ahead, rooted and cheered with considerable effect, and watched with intense interest. The play never lagged for an instant, but kept very fast and hard, and yet with surprisingly little fouling. As the time was almost up with the Congregationalists one point ahead, Bunt, of the opposite team, scored a foul, and evened the score, making it 31 to 31 just as the whistle blew. It was decided to play overtime and determine the game by the first goal scored by either side. As the play began again, with everybody under tremendous excitement, Samson, the Congregational left forward, caught a pass from centre, and with a neat shot clinched the game for his team.

The Wesleyans beat the C.C.C. in the first game of the series early in the session, but both teams have since won every match they have engaged in, so that they have both an equal chance for the cup after last night's game. Both teams were so evenly matched that little comment can be made of them. The Wesleyans certainly had the star players. Bunt, at centre, who is captain of the team, was easily the best man on the floor, and scored no less than 18 points. Armstrong also did some neat shooting from under the basket, accounting for nine points of the Methodists.

The Congregational quintette was a better all-round team, with no outstanding players, but conspicuous at times for their excellent passing and combination work. Samson and Steed made the largest number of points, and Kelly did splendid work in the defence line, managing to put in several goals as well. The style of basketball was of a very high order, and the teams are so well matched that the play-off for the Prof. Graham cup on March 8 will be looked forward to with great interest.

148TH TO BE INOCULATED.

Men Will Be Given a Series of Military Lectures.

The Medical Officer of the 148th Battalion has two busy days ahead, as to-day "A" and "B" Companies are being inoculated, and headquarters men will go through the same operation to-morrow. This means that the work done by the men during the next two days will be very light; the greater portion of the time will be taken up in giving the men lectures on various subjects, such as "Care of the Rifle," "Hygiene," "Organization of the Battalion," and on other subjects which are of the first importance in helping to make the men physically able, and of further fitting them for serious work.

Recruiting yesterday continued along fair lines, and in all about twelve men have been added to the strength. Among those taken on are: G. H. Wass, Montreal, who was two years with the 5th R.H.C.

A. Robertson, Montreal, has been transferred from the C.A.S.C., 3rd Co., 3rd Divisional Train.

D. R. Coutts, Montreal, has one brother with the R.H.C.A.

A. Goyette, Knowlton.
T. D. Benoit, Knowlton.
H. M. St. Aubin, Verdun.
Ed. Molling, Montreal.

C. A. Seeley, Montreal, was two months with the A.S.C.

G. H. F. Jones, Montreal, is a former member of the Welsh Fusiliers.

ELECTIONS FOR SCIENCE UNDERGRADS' SOCIETY.

The annual elections of officers of the Science Undergraduates' Society for the session of 1916-17 will be held on Friday, the 3rd of March, in the Engineering Building.

The following are the officers to be elected: The President and Vice-President, chosen from the Junior Year; the Secretary and Treasurer, from the Second Year; the Assistant Secretary, from the First Year, and the Reporter, from the whole society. Nominations for these offices must be made in writing, signed by at least ten members of the society, and handed in to the Vice-President on or before Wednesday, March 1st, 1916.

LOYOLA DEFEATS MCGILL SECONDS

Stuart Stars in Goal for McGill In a Very Close Game.

The Loyola Hockey Team defeated the McGill Juniors, at the Victoria Rink, last night, to the tune of 3 to 2. McGill led the way for the greater part of the game, playing superior hockey. The score at half-time was one all. McGill went ahead at the beginning of the second half by superior team work and stick-handling, but Loyola netted two in short order by a splendid rally. The game ended without further scoring, and Loyola playing a defensive game. Stuart was the star for McGill, making some splendid stops and clearing them well. The line-up was:

Goal—Stuart.
Point—Traynor and Dowell.
Centre—Lowry.
Right—Fraser.
Left—Fowler.
Spares—Corry and Jordan.

Captain Clarence N. McCuaig, past student, and Mrs. McCuaig (formerly Miss Evelyn Woods), whose marriage took place in London, England, this month, have sailed on the steamship Rotterdam. Capt. McCuaig, with his bride, will stay while on furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. McCuaig, Mountain street.

Dr. W. Fred Jackson, Med. '13, was presented with an illuminated address at Brockville recently previous to going overseas to join the Royal Army Medical Corps with the rank of captain.

Lieut. D. M. Morrison, past student, has been attached to the 154th Battalion, C.E.F., for duty and instruction.

Lieut. Edgar Loughheed, past student, will leave shortly for overseas duty with the Army Service Corps.

A London despatch to the Toronto Star says: "Col. Birkett and Major R. Wilson, Medical Training Corps, are transferred to the office of Director of the Medicals in London."

The following note has been received by the secretary of the Science Undergraduates' Society from Lieut. W. Fitz-Henry, 113 Company, Royal Engineers: "A few days ago I received a parcel of Christmas things from you, so I am writing to thank you for your very kind gift and to tell you how such things are appreciated by all of us."

The following particulars of service have been forwarded to the University by Lieut.-Col. A. T. Shillington, Med. '94, A. D. M. S., Canadian troops, Bramshott Camp, England: "I left Ottawa and went to Valcartier on the 16th of August, 1914, where I took charge of the medical examinations of the 33,000 who came with the first contingent. Then on September 22, 1914, I took command of No. 2 Canadian Stationary Hospital. "I landed at Salisbury with the first contingent, and on November 6, 1914, left for France with my unit, landing in Boulogne on the 8th. We were the first Canadian unit by a month and a half to land in France.

"On November 25, 1914, we opened No. 2 Canadian Stationary Hospital at Le Touquet, France, where I was commanding until November 22, 1915. On this date I left to come to England, where I was appointed assistant director of Medical Services, Canadians, Bramshott Camp.

"On June 23, 1915, I was mentioned in despatches by Field Marshal Sir John French for 'gallant and distinguished conduct in the field.'"

RULES BROKEN: MEN ARE "CANNED."

Hanover, N.H. — Capt. H. F. Murchie, point; J. C. Geran, rover, and K. W. Holden, goal tend, of the Dartmouth "Varsity" hockey team, were dismissed Wednesday from the squad by action of the Athletic Council for breach of training rules.

FINAL DEBATES NEXT MONDAY

Two Very Good Subjects Chosen For Debate.

ARTS VS. SCIENCE

The Chester Macnaghton Reading Reford Cup Contests Soon Approaching.

The Literary and Debating Society will hold the last of the series of inter-class debates next Monday evening at eight o'clock, when Science '19 will contend with Arts '18 over the resolution, "That it is better to have the average age of national executive bodies too high than too low." On this occasion, too, Arts '16 will debate with Science '17 on the resolution, "That after the war general disarmament is desirable." The Presbyterian College were also to have met Law '16 in debate next Monday, but unfortunately the former were compelled to default.

Within the next few weeks two important contests are billed to take place, to wit, the Chester Macnaghton Reading Contest, March 6, and the Reford Cup Contest on March 16th.

The Chester Macnaghton Contest was originated by Mr. Chester Macnaghton, who donated a prize of twenty-five dollars to be given in books of the winner's choice to the student who is judged to have given the best reading in the contest.

Three pieces must be read by each candidate. One piece is read by all, while the other two may be chosen by the student, one in prose, the other in poetry. The total time allowed is fifteen minutes for each contestant.

The second competition in public speaking for the Reford Cup usually takes the form of a debate on a question of public interest announced on the morning of the contest. The prize is awarded to the speaker who individually presents his case in the most convincing manner either for or against the question, without reference to the other competitors speaking on the same side.

The name of the winner is inscribed on the Reford Cup, which is presented by Mrs. Reford for annual competition.

R.V.C. PLAYS MACDONALD.

This afternoon the R.V.C. Hockey Team will play the Macdonald girls at Ste. Anne's.

It is requested that all players be in time for the train. The hour of departure may be had from Miss Fraser and Miss Currie.

Last Saturday the R.V.C. girls were victorious, 3-0, and it is hoped a similar score will be achieved to-day.

A large number of supporters intend going to the match, so it is likely there will be a good time. The train will be in time for dinner.
